Urban Reflections

Following her last exhibition in Singapore at the Art Loft Gallery, French photographer Florence Notté has published an 84-page coffee table book entitled Urban Reflects.

The book is an artistic tome filled with images of Singapore in a style influenced by the Cubists and British Pop artists, in particular, David Hockney. Having exhibited in both Paris and Singapore, Notté captures the beauty of reflections, textures and shapes found in modern buildings on the city streets. The photographer has been awarded by the French Federation of Photography for a series of pictures in which paintings and photographs echo each other.
